Subject: IRIS all hands meeting fo 11/6: continued discussion of study evaluation tables
Attachments: study evaluation for animal studies_11-6-13.docx

Hi all,

For those of you who attended last week's IRIS all hands meeting, you may remember that we didn't have time to cover all the examples of study evaluation tables. So... we'll be picking up the discussion from last week, and give Jason Fritz time to present his take at documentation of study evaluation for acrylonitrile bioassays.

I slightly modified the slides (mostly by removing the objectionable word "quality" from study quality evaluation!) and by adding some of the questions/topics/issues posed during the previous discussion. We might want to revisit some of these topics at Wednesday's all hands meeting, or at a minimum add to this list of issues to be resolved as we move forward with study evaluation for tox studies.

We can use the same adobe connect URL as last week (see below). For those calling in, please use the regular call in number for audio connection.

Thanks,
Sue

Subject: IRIS all hands meeting: topic for this Wednesday's meeting (study quality evaluation)

Hi all,

Vince asked that I lead a discussion of study quality evaluation and developing tables to document study quality at this Wednesdays IRIS all hands meeting. I know many folks working on IRIS assessments have given thought to documenting study quality, but few have attempted to do it. Hopefully the examples in the attached file will kick-start a discussion of how best to accomplish this step in the systematic review process. Thanks to those who contributed example tables!

Below is Adobe Connect information for those calling in remotely.
